THIRD ANNUAL COUNTY FAIR HUGE SUCCESS

The third annual Greenlee county fair was a great success, both in the number and quality of exhibits and the attendance.

The fair was held at the Union high school building and the lower floor of that structure was crowded with exhibits. The agricultural department exhibits were in the halls, domestic science and fine arts in the auditorium and the display of the agricultural class of the school was in another room.

There seemed to be a larger variety of exhibits in all departments than in previous fairs, and they were of higher grade in most respects.

The agricultural exhibits were divided into four departments, one each for Duncan, Franklin, Sheldon, and Virden. There was considerable interest in these exhibits, as prizes were awarded for the best booth. Duncan's booth was again awarded the first prize, the same being in charge of Second Francese, who also had charge of Duncan's display in the previous fairs, when he captured the first prize. The Franklin booth, with Milton Simms and Marvin Anderson in charge, captured second prize, and the Sheldon booth, R. D. Williams in charge, took third prize. The judge in this department was Prof. S. P. Clark, extension agronomist, University of Arizona.

The poultry exhibits were of greater variety than in previous years, this department being in charge of Sam R. Tilley of Sheldon. There were exhibits of almost every well known breed of chickens, ducks and turkeys, besides rabbits and other pet stock. Prof. R. B. Thompson, poultry husbandman of the University of Arizona, acted as judge in this department.

Miss Alice V. Joyce, state home demonstrator leader, acted as judge in the domestic science and fine arts department. This department was in charge of Miss Margaret Brainard, domestic science teacher at the high school, who was assisted by a number of girls from her classes. The number of entries in this department showed an increasing interest in the fair by the women of the district.

The sweepstakes awards in the agricultural exhibits were won by the following: J. E. Payne, Virden, on corn; D. E. Wilkins, Franklin, wheat; Jesse B. Simms, Franklin, alfalfa.

The afternoon was devoted to a great extent to a sports program, the children's sports being the first on the program, commencing at 1 o'clock and were under the direction of E. C. Hollenbaugh. They consisted of sack races, needle races, potato races, four-legged races and relay races. The bronco busting followed also taking place at the school grounds, being under the supervision of Silas Bradshaw. First prize was awarded to John Cauthen and second to Clarence Martin. "Toad" Miller, who rode the bucking mule, was carried through the crowd by the animal, but fortunately no casualties occurred.

Two races were held at the race track across the river later in the afternoon. The saddle race was a tie between the entries of A. B. Deaver and Roy Johnson. The free-for-all race was won by the black mare owned by Love Jones, "Gotch", rode by Ira Spoon taking second place.

The fair commissioners are to be complimented on their successful fair this year, and everybody who attended were liberal in their praise. The county farm advisor, W. F. Gilpin, who acted as secretary also did considerable good work in making the fair such a success.

At present there is much favorable talk about the purchase of some land suitable for fair grounds, and it is to be hoped that by next year the commission will be in a position to give the people a fair on a real fair grounds. Other counties have a fair ground of their own—why not Greenlee?

The Saturday club, the Duncan woman's club, gave a dance on last Saturday night which was largely attended, music being supplied by an orchestra from Pima.

Home R. Brooks has entered the employ of Joseph I. Cohn, succeeding R. P. Hall, who has resigned and gone to El Paso.

MIAMI SMELTER TO START WORK ON NOVEMBER 20

Globe, Nov. 5.—Announcement has been made that the International Smelting company will blow in one reverberatory furnace at its Miami smelter about November 20 after a shut-down of six months, due to the small demand for copper.

In announcing resumption of activities, Thomas H. O'Brien, general manager of the Inspiration Consolidated Copper company, said 200 additional men would be employed at the smelter. One hundred additional men will be employed at the Inspiration and Live Oak Mines, he said, and a shaft will be sunk on recently acquired porphyry property.

The smelter will begin operations on concentrates produced by the Miami Copper company in the last six months and stored at the smelter. It was said this supply was enough to keep the smelter going for several months.

NEW UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT NOT YET SELECTED

Tucson, Nov. 2.—Of 22 applications received by the board of regents of the state university for the position of president made vacant by the resignation of Dr. R. B. von Klein Smid, none received favorable action it is understood. The majority of applications were looked upon as more or less of a joke and unless some one is invited to take the position in the meantime it is believed that one of the deans will be placed at the head of the institution at the latter part of the month.

While none of the applicants were Arizona men there were men here better qualified to apply than some of the high school principals of Nebraska and Tennessee towns who offered their services to the state as head of its leading educational institution.

One of the applicants who forwarded his photograph informed the board that the picture was taken five years before, since which time he has improved greatly in looks. He also called attention to the fact that he was wearing a mustache then but had shaved, and was considered for more attractive.

A chemist in one of the mines near by considered his experience fitted him for the post, while there were others as well qualified for the position who would not be adverse to accepting $10,500 a year and a home.

"Children will not be forgotten at the Bazaar. See the dainty garments"

RE-OPENING OF MINES LOOKED FOR SOON.

"The copper market is improving right along," declared General Manager Thomas H. O'Brien of the Inspiration Consolidated Copper company, in the course of an interview with the Miami Bulletin on his return from a trip to France, Belgium, part of Germany and England, on which he was accompanied by P. G. Beckett the Phelps Dodge executive.

"There should be an increase in the price of the metal," he said, "but no decision has been reached as to when the copper mines can re-open. All hope, however, that the date is not very far ahead."

The impression we gained in every country we visited is that the bottom of the depression in business was reached some time ago and that there will be a gradual improvement from now on. No one, however, expects it to be very rapid," the general manager added.

France Recovering
Mr. O'Brien spoke interestingly on conditions in the countries visited by Mr. Beckett and himself. France and Belgium, he said, are recovering from the effects of the war and everyone outside of skilled mechanics is working. There are some idle men in that line. In Germany everyone is working, men, women and children. Germany appears to be very prosperous in the mechanical line and while the wages are exceedingly small for skilled laborers they seem to be getting enough to eat and enough clothes to wear. The skilled laborer earns from 40 to 50 marks per day, which at today's rate of exchange, equal 25 cents. The occurrence of a great drought in all countries of western Europe and the practiced failure of all crops except wheat, however, is calculated to bring on some distress.

The problem of foreign exchange is viewed by Mr. O'Brien as having an extremely important bearing on the copper outlook. In England, business conditions are very bad due to the fact that the prosperity of the country depends on the export trade and in normal times one third of the people are engaged in that line. At the present time they have no export trade. This fact affects exchange. None of the countries of Europe seem to have any stocks of copper on hand, but feel that they are unable to purchase it on account of the exchange. The English people resent the low value of the pound sterling and are not yet in a frame of mind to do business while the rate of exchange is against them. The English lose on exchange into dollars 20 percent, while with Belgium and France the figure is nearer 280 percent and with Germany it is about 4,500 percent. With Japan, the discount is practically nominal. Until England and other countries can recover some of their export trade, the existing conditions are bound to continue.

Germany Buying
Despite the differential in exchange Germany is the only country that is buying copper to any extent. The feeling over there is that all the countries want copper and if they could get credits here to carry them over the time the copper is being converted into manufactured goods and sold, there would be more business.

Both Germany and France continued Mr. O'Brien, are working very hard to substitute aluminum for copper and both countries are hoping to engage in an extensive scale in the production and manufacture of aluminum. Hope is entertained in those countries that aluminum will replace copper for use in the manufacture of cooking utensils, but aluminum is not meeting requirements at all, and it is doubtful if they will be able to replace copper in that respect.
